

Lily Hargraves Nungarrayi

Born in 1930, died in 2018, Chilla Well, Northern Territory, Australia

BIOGRAPHY

Lily Hargraves Nungarrayi was one of the old Warlpiri Desert walkers, born in the Tanami Desert in her country near Chilla Well in the Northern Territory, Australia. Her character and life experience is reflected in her paintings. She was driven to record and preserve her culture through her visual language. Her expressive use of colour and bold brush work show a freedom that developed from many years of painting. Nungarrayi's art is held in a number of major collections and she has been widely exhibited both in Australia and overseas.
